

July 1, 2026

Philip Oreopoulos
Distinguished Professor in Economics of Education Policy, University of Toronto
philip.oreopoulos@utoronto.ca
(416) 904-6736

To whom it may concern,

I am pleased to recommend Mr. Eric Song based on his exceptional performance as a volunteer tutor in my research program. Eric's dedication, adaptability, and strong academic and interpersonal skills make him an outstanding candidate.

During his time as a volunteer tutor, Eric consistently exhibited a high commitment to his role, providing invaluable academic support to disadvantaged grade school students in Toronto. His reliability, self-drive, and critical thinking skills set him apart as an exemplary tutor, leaving a lasting impact on the students' academic journeys under his guidance.

Beyond his academic capabilities, Eric has demonstrated exceptional interpersonal skills which allowed him to build strong relationships with students and their parents. His proactive approach, going above and beyond to ensure the well-being of his students and prioritizing effective communication, reflects his ability to foster positive and enriching learning environments. These qualities highlight his capacity to excel in a collaborative and challenging academic setting.

In conclusion, Eric Song's proven track record as a volunteer tutor demonstrates his dedication and suitability for success.

Thank you for considering Mr. Eric Song. Please feel free to contact me for any additional information.

Sincerely,

Philip Oreopoulos
Distinguished Professor in Economics of Education Policy, University of Toronto
Research Associate, National Bureau of Economic Research
Research Fellow, Institute of Labor Economics
Co-Chair, Education, Jameel Poverty Action Lab